Stabenow for Senate Releases New Television Ad “Endorsed” Hits the Airwaves

Lansing—Senator Debbie Stabenow today unveiled a new television ad for her 2006 re-election campaign, entitled “Endorsed.” The ad highlights Senator Stabenow’s record of results for Michigan families and workers, pointing to endorsements from major newspapers throughout the state as more evidence of her record of delivering for Michigan on issues concerning jobs, education, health care, and trade. Endorsed:

Senator Stabenow:

“This is about our jobs, this is about our way of life.

“And I am so proud to be in this fight on your behalf.

Narrator:

“Michigan newspapers say Stabenow gets things done.

“With tax cuts that keep jobs here.

Senator Stabenow:

“We want to export our products not our jobs.

Narrator:

“Stabenow is a tireless advocate for fair trade.

Senator Stabenow:

“If we invest in ideas, in ideas, in innovation, in education we can go forward--That’s how we keep our way of life- and that’s what I’m fighting for.

“I’m Debbie Stabenow and I approve this message.”

END AD TEXT

“If Michigan voters want evidence of the clear choice they have in this election they don’t need to look any further than their local papers,” said Stabenow Spokesperson Brent Colburn. “Do they want a Senator who has been praised statewide for her record of delivering on jobs, education and health care, or do they support someone who embodies the Bush economic policies that continue to cost us jobs and put our Michigan way of life at risk. The choice is simple, no matter what corner of Michigan you call home.”
